

Online Registry Tools

- ★ Throw away those handwritten paper forms and start updating your herd data online.
- ★ These new tools allow you to update your herd inventory, record and register calves and submit weaning & yearling data online.
- ★ Quicker, more efficient processing of your data once it is received by ARBA means you will get the results you need more quickly.
- ★ No waiting on the traditional mail service to deliver your information to the ARBA and no waiting for the reports of updated information from the ARBA once your work has been processed.
- ★ Don't have time to sit down and record all your data at once or complete information on your calf-crop not yet available? Don't worry, just log on to the online registry and record what information you have or have time to work on and then return at a later date to finish up entering your data and submit your information for processing.

Interested in signing up?

All you have to do is:

1. Read and complete both sections of the attached signup form.
2. Return the completed form to the ARBA via mail or Fax.
(contact information found at bottom of signup form)
3. ARBA will send you instructions, via email, on using the online registry tools.
4. Start updating your herd information online.

Signing up to use the online registry tools provides several new opportunities and requires a few changes to the way you do business with the ARBA. Please read the following to make sure you are aware of these.

- ★ Signing up for the online registry tools will allow you to record calves electronically, update herd inventories and submit weaning and yearling data electronically.
- ★ You will have to set up an ARBA internet account and log on using your account information to use the online registry tools. If you have not already set up an internet account then information submitted with this form will allow us to set one up for you. Once your new ARBA internet account is set up, you will receive an email providing the details you will need to log on for the first time. If you are already using an ARBA internet account, then no changes will be made to your connection details and you may continue to logon as you have in the past.
- ★ Primary means of communicating to you that certain herd information is available for you to update will be through the use of electronic mail (e-mail). All written communication from you will continue to be acknowledged and used to update herd information you submit, however communication from the ARBA to you will be in the form of e-mail.
- ★ Herd and calf-crop reports and worksheets will no longer be printed and mailed to you as a primary means of communicating that the ARBA has processed your information. After your work has been processed, ARBA will notify you by email that updated information is now available, including electronic reports and worksheets that you can print or download and save on your computer through your ARBA internet account. Registration certificates will continue to be printed and mailed to you once a registration or transfer has been completed.
- ★ Furthermore, you will be able to quickly create new batches of information electronically using worksheet files that will be loaded onto your ARBA internet account that are based on information you have previously submitted (similar to the way current printed forms are used).

Please sign on the line immediately below to acknowledge that you have read the information above and would like to participate in the ARBA's Online Registry
